

Does scale change how models handle negation?

